

Catherine Altson is a Visiting Lecturer for the MSc Counselling and Psychotherapy programme at the University of Roehampton and a Research Assistant at the Research Centre for Therapeutic Education, also at the University of Roehampton. She has recently embarked on a PhD through the university's Department of Psychology and currently works in private practice in Clapham, London.